The opinions expressed in this column are the personal views of the writer and do not necessarily reflect those of the management; in fact, many times they do not.—Editor.

ANSWER IS YES

Without any argument, I believe it will be conceded that it was HOT, not warm, yesterday. There were many indications of torridity, vocal and those actions which speak louder than words.

For the first time in the 14 years that the Lions have been roaring hereabouts those leonine gentlemen at their weekly luncheon meet discarded their coats, and some their vests—got down to real fighting trim. This gesture of surrender in a losing battle with the heat was indicative of the entire community being hot and bothered.

However, while in a place of business, a woman came in wearing a heavy woolen coat. That might mean little or nothing, judging from the whispered information passed along to me that this same woman in cold weather goes around town arrayed in a pair of shorts. You figure out the explanation if you can, for what I use for a brain is parboiled beyond the point of reasoning.

Anyway I gleaned the data from the Tank Farm Hill settlement of the Standard Oil Company that its thermometer registered a high of 90 degrees, which is hot in any man's country.

Property And Children Sought In Divorce Plea

MARTINEZ, Sept. 17.—Reasonable division of community property worth $10,000 and custody of minor children is asked by Mrs. Isabel Neves in a suit for divorce she has filed in superior court here against Frank Neves, charging cruelty.

The couple married April 27, 1912 and separated June 21, 1935, according to the complaint.

Mrs. Neves claims that her husband nagged at her, accused her falsely of associating with other men and told her he did not love her.

She states that Neves is foreman for the Moraga Land company and is able to pay for support of their minor children.

Attorney Leo Marcello of Richmond represents Mrs. Neves.

Hot Time In The Old Town

There was a hot time in the old town—in fact several old towns yesterday. Richmond did herself proud by her place in the sun, calorically speaking, to the extent of 90 degrees.

The thermometer at Martinez stratosphered to 95, while in San Francisco it was one of those "unusual" days with a temperature of 89. On the same date in 1877 it was 92 in the bay city, but since then the nearest approach on a September 17th was yesterday.

In Oakland the mercury did some fancy dices with the high point at 92 degrees.

Weather Bureau predictions call for cooler weather today, an announcement that will be hailed with pleasure by all and sundry.

TOM MOONEY OPENS NEW LEGAL FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—UP.—Convinced that his last hope for freedom lies with the United States Supreme Court, Thomas J. Mooney, former labor leader and convicted wartime bomber, lay in a county jail cell here tonight, awaiting hearing on his latest appeal for liberty.

Amid precautions strangely contradictory to the cheerful atmosphere of a cloudless fall day, Mooney was released from San Quentin prison today for the third time since he was convicted 18 years ago for the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing outrage.

GUARDED BY TEN

A guard of 10 men accompanied the famous prisoner from San Quentin's grey walled cell buildings to the edge of San Francisco bay, where the police boat D. A. White waited to bear him to San Francisco to appear before the State Supreme Court for a habeas corpus hearing.

Mooney's transfer was effected with extreme secrecy, because Warden James B. Holohan of San Quentin said: "I'm not liked so well in some quarters, you know."

Peckham delivered a most interesting and enlightening talk on the history of the American Constitution, and at the same time issued a warning to those who would change this document.

"There are some among us who regard it (the Constitution) as a mere outmoded scrap of paper, adapted only to the horse and buggy period of American civilization, and there are some among us who regard it as a sacred covenant enshrined in the holy of holies. But what is the constitution? Most people think of it as

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 17.—UP.—With one million tons of warships maneuvering under a dozen flags, the Mediterranean tonight was a vast powder keg, awaiting only the spark of the League of Nations' action against Italy to touch off a greater explosion of sea force than the world has ever seen.

Britain, "indivisible of the seas" since Sir Francis Drake shattered the Spanish Armada 400 years ago was pouring men of war through the Straights of Gibraltar at an unprecedented rate.

SHIPS PERILED SEVEN DEAD IN BRITISH STORM

LONDON, Sept. 17—Seven persons were known to be dead today as the result of the most violent gale of recent years.

The gale, which swept the English coast, moderated toward nightfall, but heavy seas still surged at channel ports.

The dead included a ship's captain, a woman crushed by a chimney and three cyclists swept along by the wind.

PHONES WRECKED

The general postoffice reported 1,000 telephones, including 8400 in the London area, were out of order.

Captain H. Turner of the Brompston Manor was lost overboard as the freighter tried to reach Portsmouth.

A life boat from the Barry, Wales life-saving station fought heavy seas to rescue the crew of six of the French steamer, Goulard, which foundered on its way to Cardiff.

SHIPS IN DISTRESS

Another vessel in distress, the British freighter, Mary Kingsley, was reported faring better. She carried nine passengers, and was trying to make Falmouth.

At least two other ships were in distress. Rescue ships were reported standing by, the British freighter Mary Kingsley, off the Irish coast.

The Marseilles radio picked up distress signals from the British steamer Crackshot.

MRS. F. A. FENN of Gant has returned from an interesting two weeks' vacation trip to British Columbia.

GOOD HEALTH

Distressing Boils Often Follow Lowering of Vitality in Patient's Body

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

QUERIES from Mrs. W. D. R. and Miss H. S. K. called for this discussion of boils and pimples, and these readers want especially to ask, "What causes so many boils?"

That question has bothered humankind since Job grieved over the poison that drank up his spirit. Get out your Latin dictionary. There is the word you want. In that ancient language, the affliction was called "furuncle" and meant literally an eruption of the skin.

DR. CHRISMAN

Boils are usually to be found where sweat glands are plentiful. It is not likely that they have their beginning in the glandular tissues and later, by inflammation, spread to the skin. The immediate cause is the blocking of the glandular portions of the connective tissues. The bacteria which started the rumpus have chance and time to multiply, and presently there are too many to be overcome and controlled in any brief period.

If it is true, as Job said, that "man is born to trouble," the sparks fly upward. It is equally true that certain people are just bound to have boils. One of the predestined girls I ever knew as a young fellow was a sorry victim for her apparent reason.

There are, it is true, predisposing conditions, since any of the diseases that lower vitality may be followed by these distressing eruptions. This is only a proof of lowered powers of resistance, since bacteria of some sort is always about us seeking to invade our anatomy.

Once in a while, a sudden change of habitation, such as from inland to the seashore, or a change in dietary habits may be the forerunner of boils. Many an attempt at reducing by means of an eliminating diet will start a series of "furuncles" which are only an expression of nature's displeasure at the sudden upsetting of her regime.

The infectious nature of a boil is shown by the way it begins as a very touchy point, whose sensitive-ness seems to reach the very bone marrow. It takes nearly a week for this first hard, hot area to show a white soft spot, but by the process of breaking down of tissue and discharge of pus begins, the "boiling" is under way and stops only when the infection has overcome. It is even harder to remove and control the deep seated suppuration, which after a time becomes chronic and returns again and again.

"Boiling" Held Back
The "boiling" is retarded, more tissue is involved and eventually a deep incision with the knife is the only recourse. Sometimes these points of infection are so far imbedded that development is slow and they never do "come to a head." These are commonly referred to as blind boils. Every neighborhood has a favorite remedy for boils and every local physician has a law into it. The individual system must be renovated and toned up.

The infected area may need to be deeply incised to allow thorough drainage. Sometimes, if the infection has been there for some years, drastic treatment is used such as a drop of carbolic acid, following a cleaning out of the heart of the festering.

Archie is an antibiotic used both externally and internally. Hot cloths wrung from iodine water will aid absorption and will relieve the pain, as will ice packs to deaden the tissues.

Two or three years ago, it was discovered that men who worked in the mines did not have these skin eruptions. A preparation of oxide of tin was designed which has been quite acceptable for internal use.

PWA Building Program
The New York architect, Albert Mayer, sums up the government's record on housing in the following terms:

"Some 3,000 living units costing about $11,000,000 are either completed or nearly so. These are all the old limited-dividend enterprises, built on vacant land. Of the government building on slum land, construction has started on five projects—two in Atlanta, one each in Cleveland, Indianapolis and Montgomery—with some 3,100 dwelling units costing $12,000,000; and sites have been completely acquired and demolition is under way or completed in New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, Nashville, Indianapolis and Atlantic City on projects for 8,850 families, costing some $2,000,000. Regarding a translation of these facts into completion dates: two years after the P.W.A. started its work, 3,000 living units were completed. Three years later, another 3,100 will have been finished, and three and a half years later still another 8,850. Some time after that 16,000 more will have been finished."

Profiles For Today

A Matinee Idol Starts Peace Project

By TALBOT LAKE

A WORLD peace plan seriously expounded by an actor sounds impossible, and such an idea developed by a good-looking matinee idol whose chief scheme in life should be to make women admire him is fantastic. Yet here is Francis Lederer—he of the brown, swimming eyes, handsome profile, and charming accent—putting out cards asking the recipient to stick with a peace plan which he hopes to make inroads on the four horsemen of war.

He maintains an office in Hollywood from which he directs the destinies of the movement. Only a year and a half old, it already has 100,000 members in the United States and 500,000 in other countries. The World Peace Federation is a simple idea. It merely sends out cards asking the recipient to sign his name to signify his accord with the desire for universal peace. The testimony thus gathered represents the average person—the man-in-the-street and Lederer hopes to impress the powers that be that the general public is against warlike attitudes on the part of their governments.

Lederer was a boy of twelve when the war was at its height. His older brother was killed, and he wanted revenge. He joined the army, even at that tender age. As he says:

"I was twice decorated for bravery. It all seems silly to me now. I braved crueller fire to bring men in the trenches their food. They could have waited half an hour to eat; many of them were going to be killed, anyway. So I got a medal. For that symbol of misguided patriotism you risk your life."

When he read the Treaty of Versailles he felt it planted the seeds of another war. It was then he evolved his plan, but he did nothing much about it until the time of the Manchurian crisis. Contacting members of different peace societies, he gained their interest and help.

When the Federation obtains ten or fifteen per cent of the population of each country, it will approach the rulers and show them the feeling of their people.

Guide to Charm

Beauty Won If Cosmetics Match Gown

By JACQUELINE HUNT

IF YOU want to look your best this fall frame your face in a halo hat, use cosmetics that make your brow as fair and smooth as alabaster and your skin rich with vibrant color.

Wear the softly-draped dresses and fur-trimmed suits that are being shown in every shop window. The warm, new Renaissance shades are flattering and different, but they deserve the right cosmetics to bring out their richness. Try on your cosmetics as carefully as you do your frocks.

You will find you can wear shades you never dreamed were possible before—rich, warm shades of red, green, brown, purple and turquoise for evening.

For the blonde or redhead, for instance, there is a beautiful new gold-green called Veronese, or by other romantic names. With this other romantic shade, exciting shade

MISS HUNT

(blondes) or black (for redheads) mascara.

One of the bright, powdery blue that has been stolen from old paintings is lovely for the fair-skinned brunette. With this shade you will need a delicate, peach-bloom powder, vivid rouge and lipstick with a rose undertone, silvery-blue eye shadow and black or for evening blue mascara.

Another of the popular shades for daytime wear is Celine bronze, which is really a dark brown shot with golden threads. This is a good color for either brunettes or the rather dark, golden-skinned blonde. Use the russet or terra cotta shades of rouge, lipstick and powder to give your skin added warmth. Pale-green, or bronze eye shadow and black mascara give your eyes the proper witchery.

With the gold, coral and metallic greens that are so lovely for evening, be sure your powder gives your skin a delicate, transparent quality. Some of the mauve and opalescent shades of powder especially blended for evening will give you the effect. Use a warm rose of clear red rouge and vivid lipstick. If you are the exotic type you might go so far as to experiment with the metallic eye shadow in bronze, gold or silver but if you are doubtful use the iridescent shades.

Your lips should be dewy and bright, so choose your lipstick with care. Be sure that it is soft and creamy, and spreads smoothly. This need in no way interfere with its lasting quality, since most of the new lipsticks are of the "permanent" variety.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "My eyelids have started to form wrinkles, although I am quite young. I have been reading intensely this summer. Also, when I remove dead eyelashes, I think perhaps I pulled too hard on the lids. Do you think this could have caused the wrinkles? How can they be removed? How can the corners of the mouth be kept from looking down? And can moles be removed any way besides plastic surgery?"—A Reader.

Pulling your eyelashes may indeed be the cause of the "wrinkles." The irritation may have caused a slight swelling of the lids which in turn made noticeable creases whenever you opened or closed your eyelids. But why remove dead eyelashes? If they are really dead they will fall out of their own accord. If they only look dry and frizzled on the tips, apply a little olive oil or eyelash grower with a tiny brush and see how pretty and glossy they will be in short order. Use the olive oil on the lids, too. Eyestrain causes little lines to appear at the outer corners of the eyes and between them. You might check up on this matter, however, and get glasses if you need them.

Do not neglect the corners of your mouth when you give your face its daily cleansing. You might wash the lips after each meal, too. Apply lemon juice to the dark areas and leave on overnight. Never apply lipstick all the way to the corners of your mouth, but keep it concentrated well toward the center of the lips and inside the natural line.

Moles can be removed with simple injections of acid that causes them to dry up and drop off. This should be done by a doctor, however, as different types of moles require different treatment.

Speaking of Styles

Bridge Frock, Quite Formal, Wins Stylists

By IRENE VAIL

New York—The hit of the season seems to be the bridge frock, the skirt of which clears the ground by the wide margin of nine inches. In some of the most stunning examples the bodice is cut high in front and to the waistline at the back. Designed to wear over the frocks are some charming boleros, usually of the dress fabric, but sometimes something more elaborate. You will find these little after-thoughts also in fur just for variety among the lessons of caps in fur and other media. Persian lamb is too for such things and may indeed be so regarded for all manner of uses.

Several authorities are quoted as giving the costume suit with swapper coat as the suit type of the moment. These are not all as sportlike as they sound. Fabrics and colors transform these suits, as do the boleros with which they are worn. In this connection it may be well to mention that, considering the season, navy is much in evidence. Navy is spring's own color, but in the line-up for fall one finds it repeated often enough to deserve mention.

While any number of interesting colors have a sporting chance to win, the daytime favorite is black—black or black-with. Combinations promise to be best in street, rather than two colors.

In hoping to convey a clear impression of the fashion situation I did not want against a too-literal acceptance of the elaborated themes. After all, one must remain sane even in a mad, mad world of fashion, which is to say that the simpler things are still the best choice.

You are bound to like the new neck treatments, bringing stripes and ropes, even festoons of pearls, again into play. Between necks bedecked with such things and belts, fashioning a message of their own the fall season is not without its colorful accents, black though many of the dresses really are.

It is a year in which, not only you, but everyone else, will look to your waistline. It's because of belts, which never have been more important—or more diversely so. They are always calling attention to themselves—and maybe to a matching suit—sometimes the handbag, sometimes the hat.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "How should a lady be introduced to a gentleman?"—L. O.

ANSWER: The gentlemen is always introduced to the lady. Say, "Miss Davis, this is Mr. Franklin." Don't ever ask a lady to cross the room to meet a man. Take the man to her.

QUESTION: "Is it a chauffeur's place to open the door and help his mistress out?"—I. B.

ANSWER: Such help from a chauffeur is not necessary unless one's mistress or master is ill or helplessly old. This is a job for a footman, and when there is no footman, master and mistress open the door of the car at their destination and alight without assistance. When they start out, however, the chauffeur stands at the door of the car and sees that the passengers are comfortable before he shuts it and takes his place at the wheel.

MODERN WOMEN

A Few Queries on the Polite Conduct of a Girl and a Boy

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

SOMEONE who signs herself M. M. writes me, asking so many questions that, instead of publishing her letter, I am going to enumerate her questions and try to put her straight about them.

First she asks: "Does a young girl think anything of herself if she goes to parties, bobs her hair, and goes to dances?"

I rather think she makes a distinction between parties and dances, meaning by parties such affairs as are given by friends in their homes, and by dances—dances in dance halls, road houses, and so on. Just what hobnobbing her hair has to do with either isn't clear.

Let's suppose "with that first" with that first. There is no earthly reason why a girl should not bob her hair if she thinks that short hair is going to improve her appearance or be a convenience. She certainly does not sacrifice her self-respect in cutting her tresses. There is no problem, moral or emotional, involved.

You and Your Child
Adolescent Needs Parents' Assurance

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD Martin has become very touchy. "I don't understand him any more," his mother says. "He resents correction. He makes an issue of anything I say, and before I know it we are arguing."

The other day he and his mother had some trifling words led to another and before long the pair of them were at an emotional climax. The mother's face was red with anger as she threatened punishment. She turned pale and cold, however, when Martin flung himself face downward across the sofa, and beating it with his fists, cried, "I wish I had never been born! I wish I were dead!"

For suddenly there passed through her mind a glimmer of recollection out of the past of her own childhood. She dropped to her knees beside the distraught boy. She did not know what it was all about, nor what to say or do other than to soothe him. For she had an intuition that whatever the boy felt was genuine.

Adolescence is a trying period. Parents after this trison mechanically, having in mind the physical changes which are recognized as natural for this period and which they take for granted more or less. But as a result of these changes there are bound to be changes in disposition. The adolescent becomes more spirited. In some this crops out in a love of adventure. Others become critical and suffer from dissatisfaction in everything. In Martin it shows up in touchiness and moodiness in general.

For the most part these changes reflect instability. The adolescent is not as cocky, as reckless, as brash as he seems. Everything about him is changing. He now needs the assurance more than ever that his parents are unchanged toward him. Avoid pettiness, therefore. Humor him when necessary. Be his haven in a storm of doubt.

Hungry Nation
If a person started counting today at the rate of sixty words per minute and kept on counting like a clock for six hundred and sixty-six years, he would be somewhere near twenty-one billion, which is the approximate number of pounds of meat and lard consumed by the population of the United States, according to the Institute of American Meat Packers.

And Why Not?
Question Number Four: "If a boy loves a girl should he ask her to go to public dances?"

When a man really loves a girl it means, among other things, that she has aroused his respect and his instincts. And that means he is going to take care of her and of her reputation, in which case it is not likely that he is going to want her seen in any place that will reflect on her character. Most men are much more conservative than women and are sticklers for propriety—when it comes to their own women, by which I mean their mothers, sisters, sweethearts, or wives.

"Should a boy friend ask permission to come and see a girl if they are in love?" is the next question.

Permission is hardly the word. He should, of course, find means of acquainting her of his plan, unless, of course, he is sure that she will be at home. In which case I hardly think he—an ardent lover—would hesitate to present himself at a reasonable hour. It never does any harm, no matter how great the intimacy, to telephone first.

Short Cuts
Tomatoes and hard cooked eggs are good working mediums for novelty salads. Scoop out tomatoes can be filled with a wide range of delicious mixtures, using chicken or potato salad, flaked fish, cottage cheese or anchovy paste. Remove the yolks of hard cooked eggs, mash with a fork and season highly with chopped onion, capers, mayonnaise, olive oil, salt and pepper. Mold into balls and return to the white of egg.

Nearly everyone knows that a wedge of lemon is the perfect accompaniment to a fish course. But did you know that orange combines deliciously with fish in salads, particularly with salmon?

Use wads of dampened newspaper for cleaning ash trays. And keep your hands clean of the odor of stale cigarettes as well as the kitchen sink.

For children's salads try a dressing of fresh lemon juice to which a little sugar has been added.

To get the fullest service from your vacuum cleaner, the dust bag should be emptied at least once a week.

Don't Take Pills For Constipation

Ordinary pills taken to relieve constipation merely force a movement of the bowels without making the liver secrete its excess bile. That's why the trouble returns in a day or two and you have to swallow more pills. What every constipated person needs is a good liver tonic-like Planax to thoroughly cleanse the digestive system of all food secretions and at the same time restore the torpid liver to proper working order. When this is done you will no longer have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter taste, sour stomach, gas, bilious attacks or other symptoms of constipation and liver trouble. Planax is made from the juices of balsamic herbs and plants—Nature's own remedy—that act in a mild, easy way without causing or irritating the bowels. Try it tonight. Planax is the only good liver tonic.

CONSERVATIVES IN CONTROL AT LABOR MEET

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 17—Radicals and conservatives battled repeatedly today on almost every issue at the annual convention of the California State Federation of Labor at the second day of the meeting. The first decisive display of strength came on a resolution proposed by Albert A. Greenbaum, president of the San Francisco Musicians' Union, it called for an endorsement of the Federation's present conservative administration. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 42-19 to 1,875.

Harry Bridges, San Francisco Longshoremen leader, grumbled as the result of the vote was announced, and said:

"This is only the beginning. We have gained plenty of votes since yesterday."

The convention voted to send Tom Mooney a telegram affirming the "faith and confidence" of a sanctioned labor in his cause on the eve of his appearance before the State Supreme Court in San Francisco. A resolution demanding his immediate release will come before the convention later.

Israel Feinberg of San Francisco, representing women's garment workers, voiced a warning against fascism.

"The attack on unionism by fascism is a challenge to the labor movement," said Feinberg. "We must realize that fascism is the enemy of civilization. The way to stop the spread of fascism is for workers to unite nationally and overthrow the governments of Italy, Germany and Austria."

AAA processing taxes. Deputy United States Attorney Dorothy Williams argued in a hearing before Federal Judge A. F. S. Sure today that recent AAA amendments provide adequate remedies for processors who pay under protest, making the injunctions and restraining orders unnecessary. The action involves approximately $1,235,000 impounded by the court. Constitutionality of the AAA is not directly at issue.

Injunctions On AAA Taxes Will Be Dissolved

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17—UP—The Federal Government moved today to dissolve eight preliminary injunctions and two restraining orders prohibiting the collection of a document, a piece of paper printed with big words. It is not those words were put on paper to convey an idea. And as we read them they do convey to us that idea. And that idea is the Constitution. It is an idea the American idea."

PECKHAM IS SPEAKER AT VETS' MEET

PROVISIONS TOLD

Peckham then discussed the provisions of the Constitution, telling how it delegates the powers of the states, the congress and the president. He reviewed the history of the colonies, from the founding of America until the adoption of the articles of confederation and the Constitution.

"We are told," he said, "that governments are not organized to lay taxes. Aside from the fact that it gives the politicians, it is historically true that the present government of the United States was organized to lay and collect taxes. And the government has been doing just that ever since. So what?"

SCOLD'S FOREIGN BORN

"My experience of 20 years as a teacher of constitutional law has convinced me that unless a student has been born in the Federal idea, in the United States, Canada or Australia, he will never master it. It is incomprehensible to foreigners. And therefore, I feel that no president or governor should ever appoint a foreign-born, or foreign-reared man to federal or state Supreme courts. And no president should ever listen to foreign-born or foreign-reared advisers on constitutional questions. They never do get the feel of American institutions."

"If this be treason, make the most of it."

IS COMPROMISE

The Federal system, the speaker said, was a compromise between the states.

"That clause (the supremacy clause) and the supremacy of the judiciary that it establishes makes our government what it is and keeps it what it always was intended to be. That is why our government still exists when others have fallen by the wayside. That is why you have rights that can't be taken away by Congress, by the legislature, by the governor or by the policeman down the street. You can always run around to your little old Superior judge, and get things straightened out. He is the umpire that makes them all obey the rules."

PIOUS MAXIMS

"Other countries have Constitutional guarantees, usually copied from our Constitution, but because the legislature can overstep them at will, they have become simply pious maxims for the guidance of the godly."

"Why have a written constitution if the congress can ignore it at will? Why do we put constitutional provisions in writing? Why, for the same reason you put contracts in writing. So that thereafter none can dispute what is there in the writing."

CHANGES DANGEROUS

"What shall we say to those in this country who advocate a change in the Constitution, the American idea, so that the word of Congress will be law regardless of what the Constitution says? Who would authorize the agent to overstep the authority given in his power of attorney? Who would, so to speak, permit your agents to collect your rents and sell you out, lock, stock and barrel? If, as I have pointed out, the present Constitution is the American idea, that idea is certainly un-American."

Peckham closed his talk with: "While the Constitution stands, so stands America. If the Constitution falls, so falls America. If America falls, so falls the world."

DELAP SPEAKS

The speaker was introduced by Assemblyman T. H. Delap, who, in a brief talk, paid high tribute to Peckham.

Britain Warns Italy

A TENSE moment in the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva as Sir Samuel Hoare, right, British Foreign Secretary, commanded that the League act against aggression. This was accepted as a warning to Italy that Great Britain would not sanction Italy's invasion of Ethiopia. The photograph was rushed from Geneva to London and radioed to New York.

He was the son of the late James M. and Margaret A. Robinson. The body will be taken to the Golden Gate Mortuary chapel, 1414 California street, for funeral services.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Wilcox & 17th streets, at the discretion of the relatives.

An inquest in the death is pending.

def it was designated as "time out." The custom still prevails, I believe in gridiron circles. Now it has been extended to business.

A few days ago the president of one of the big press associations wrote to Mr. Roosevelt, and in a diplomatic way asked him if his war on business was about over.

The reply, which was equally diplomatic, assured the questioner that business was to be given a breathing spell in other words that business had been punished sufficiently for the time being, and would be given an opportunity to recover from its wounds.

Whether business can get back its breath and energy is a question, but doubtless it welcomes the respite from punishing laws and the uncertainty of more stringent measures in its role of the bad boy of the nation.

A WARNING

Constitution Day and the breath and sincerity of its observance should prove a warning to those who believe that their attacks on that document in the next presidential campaign will be received with favor by the people.

While we as a people do not make a fetish of the document, we are thoroughly cognizant of its effectiveness and the vital part it plays in the scheme of national destiny.

Until such time as those who would tear it to shreds can offer a better plan and not one to which is attached the suspicion of dictatorship and soap bubble economics, I am of the opinion that we will continue to rock along under the protection it has always offered and still holds out for safe and sane government for all the people—except those who have lucrative ideas for destroying the existing order of things.

CATHOLIC AID IS AGENCY OF LOCAL CHEST

How the Catholic Ladies Aid Society brought aid to needy distressed skin funds provided through the community chest, was shown yesterday in a report to the Chest by Mrs. Margaret Healey, president, and Mrs. Margaret Gordon, the secretary.

The society is one of the eight agencies of the local chest, and expects to carry on a similar program through the coming year on its allotment from the 1935 campaign. Some of the details of the report follow:

"During the year from September 1, 1934 to August 1, 1935, our agency expended a total of $25. Of this $27 came from the community chest fund, and the remainder from other donations and dues. We do not limit our work to any particular religious group but serve the community wherever a real need is established. Our money was expended for the following things:

Provisions	$25.00
Clothing	$151.00
Milk	67.00
Shoes	50.00
Rent	39.00
Misc. Supplies	150.00

"In addition to these disbursements, we provided 22 families with baskets of groceries at Christmas time. And in addition to these actual physical supplies, our volunteer visitors have been of assistance, and have given advice in many cases where needed."

"We have a small balance on hand to begin the year with, and are asking the community chest for the same amount as last year, namely $50."

"We want to thank the Community Chest board and the public at large, that we will continue to do the very best work possible among Richmond citizens, and make the funds allotted to us go just as far as possible."

The report of the Catholic Ladies Aid was accepted by the budget committee, and their request for $50 was granted.

BREAKDOWN OF LEAGUE MEET SEEN

of the home fleet, ride off Alexandria farther west toward Italian Libya. They stand ready to steam into strategic position at once if the League orders sanctions imposed against Italy.

British troop movements in Egypt are cloaked in utmost secrecy, but well informed residents of Port Said will tell you 10,000 "tomnies" are expected there by Friday the day some forecasters have set for beginning of hostilities.

FRENCH SEND TROOPS

The Angers carries 200 French troops assigned to take over and protect the French railroad from Djibouti to Addis Ababa. They will relieve civilian employees. Part of them may be sent to Addis Ababa to guard the French legation.

The French contingent also includes a flying officer and crew with two airplanes, presumably for observing conditions along the railroad.

ENVOY IS PRISONER

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 17.—UP.—With an Italo-Ethiopian war perhaps only days away, Italy's consular staffs in the interior remain virtual prisoners of Emperor Haile Selassie, a situation official asserted today.

He said that Ethiopia continually has delayed granting them permits to cross the frontiers either into Eritrea or Italian Somaliland or to proceed to Addis Ababa.

PEACE FAILURE SEEN

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—UP.—Complete breakdown of League of Nations peace efforts was just around the corner tonight.

Members of the Italian delegation told other delegates tonight that Italy is certain to reject any peace plan offered.

COMMITTEE BATTLE

Members of the League Council's committee of five were fighting among themselves over the committee proposals to be offered to Italy and Ethiopia. Even if the committee should agree, unanimous acceptance by the council is doubtful.

The three-power Paris project broke down because it did not offer Premier Benito Mussolini enough. Collapse of the five-power committee plan is threatened because it would offer too much.

DENOUCE PROPOSAL

Russia, a member of the council, and Turkey, represented on the committee of five, were understood to have denounced the incomplete draft of proposals as unfair to Italy.

Russia's delegate, Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinoff, reportedly, is prepared to rise in the Council tomorrow and denounce the suggested peace plan as "an endorsement of naked imperialism," incompatible with the League covenant's guarantee to safeguard members' independence and sovereignty.

Chairman Salvador Madariaga of Spain sought to salvage the committee plan by making the proposals a "basis for negotiation" rather than a definite offer to Italy and Ethiopia. The proposals were said to contain minimum and maximum suggestions on various points at issue.

FRANCE TO COOPERATE

LONDON, Sept. 17.—UP.—France is willing to participate in collective sanctions against Italy if necessary. Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary, reportedly told this afternoon's special Cabinet meeting.

Sir Samuel based his statement on the Geneva speech of Premier Pierre Laval of France and also French assurances during the last two days, it was said.

This news surprised diplomats who had believed that France would make no definite commitment on sanctions before Britain replied to her inquiry: Will Britain participate in sanctions against any future continental European aggressor?

BLAME BRITISH

ROME, Sept. 17.—UP.—Italian authorities, observing Britain's impressive Mediterranean fleet concentration with close interest, said today that if Italy's projected colonial war with Ethiopia should cause a conflict between Britain and Italy it would be entirely Britain's fault.

Because of British "muddling," they said, things have gone too far now for any compromise with Italy.

Despite official comment that Britain's Mediterranean fleet movements are "not regarded as hostile," heavy concentrations of Italian fighting ships have occurred in Southern Italy bases, especially near Malta.

Rancher Seeks Flood Damages From The S. O.

MARTINEZ, Sept. 17.—Selection of November 19 as the date for the jury trial of a $34,500 action for alleged damage to San Pablo creek property by overflow waters from a dam was announced today after attorneys agreed upon the date before Superior Judge A. E. Bray.

The action was filed by Amador A. Amador and Gary Amador against the Standard Oil Company of California, Olive Grecco and John Due Grecco, her husband.

Amador and his wife claim that the Standard Oil Company erected a dam across Wild Cat creek on November 17, 1931 to store water for usage by the company. They charge that a dike was constructed near the Grecco property and that Greccos had control of the dike.

The plaintiffs assert that during the winters of 1928, 1929, 1930 and 1931 the defendants carelessly and negligently allowed water from the dam to flood their properties, and charged that water rotted part of their truck gardens crops, spread rubbish over their property and deposited brackish soil and alkalis upon the land which formerly was very fertile.

Attorney Will Robinson of Richmond represents Amador and his wife.

Man Held For Bullion Theft

MARTINEZ, Sept. 17.—Claimed by officers to have admitted theft of gold and silver from the American Smelting & Refining Company at Solby, H. C. Corder, 42, of 542 Huntington avenue, Richmond, was in the county jail here awaiting trial on a petit theft charge.

Corder was arrested late last night by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Harrison at 1452 Canes street, Berkeley. Harrison declares Corder admitted the theft of the gold and silver to him, and also admitted selling some of the silver to a metal dealer in San Francisco. Corder has agreed to return the remainder of the stolen bullion, according to the officers.

D. A. TO MAKE PROBE OF S. F. GRAFT CHARGES

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—UP

—The county grand jury tonight appeared dependent upon a district attorney's investigation for information on asserted police graft in San Francisco.

Contempt charges against John V. Lewis, U. S. Internal Revenue Collector, were dropped when Judge Daniel C. Deasy ruled Lewis was privileged and justified in refusing to divulge knowledge of graft to the grand jury.

Mayor Angelo Rossi, following a ruling by City Attorney John J. O'Toole, refused the jury's request for $25,000 from his emergency fund to finance an independent investigation.

O'Toole told the mayor the State Supreme Court had already held that a grand jury has not the power to detect crime and that only the district attorney's office can request funds for an investigation.

District Attorney Matthew Brady indicated today he would make such a request not later than Monday.

Theodore Roche, president of the police commission, today berated Lewis for his original charges of graft, saying he had no right to publicly reveal information concerning graft here.

Lewis replied that his statement was only general in character.

Asked if he could name anyone who could give graft information, Lewis replied that "there are lots of people who claim they 'know about graft.'"
